

Sometimes people say well, I don't have time for my family. I don't have time to act for this and time for that. Whenever you find yourself getting with regard to balance, and especially when you feel that you don't have the time. is when you most need to stop and think. So here's the question. What would I do if I only had six months to live? Find yourself working too hard or not spending time in your relationship, not... time with the people you care about and who care about you ask yourself What would I do if I only had six months to live? And if we... spending that time, so we'll If you had six months to live, you know, it's an old joke that doctors say they a businessman on his deathbed who said, boy, I wish I'd spent more time with the office. The fact of the matter is that balance and moderation and all things increase your increase your efficiency and remember the only reason So that you can enjoy the great things of life which are your relationships, the things that make you happy, and so on. Imagine that you are... financially independent that you have passed 20 million in the back. you only have 10 years to live. You're going to enjoy superb... but you have all the money that you need and you have to something you cannot be a layabout so therefore if you work at anything. What career would you choose if you could wave a magic wand and have all
